

March 6, 1917.—The German newspapers this morning are filled with a splenetic and impotent rage at the exposure of their dishonourable methods made by the publication of the orders to the German Minister at Mexico City. They blame the President for having published the letter, claiming that it was not fair in him!